Falling Off the Log

Any Meeting

Summer Camp

Merit Badge Workshop

A scout fell off a balance log today trying a new trick, laughed about it, and got right back up to try again. Nobody booed. Nobody made fun of him. That's exactly the culture I want in this troop — a place where falling off the log is just part of trying something new, not something to be embarrassed about. Try the thing that might make you fall off the log this week.
